About his works:-

Hailing from Dhanbad, Ranjeet has witnessed the problem of child labor very closely. He has painted a series on "Yamu". Yamu is a child who works at a tea stall in Banaras Hindu University. Yamu is not a helpless child rather a child full of life, without a single wrinkle of tiredness on his face. But these carefree looking children in his paintings bring you to ponder upon the deep rooted problem of child labour in Delhi.

Ranjeet said, "My painting put my views across on child labor. I am trying to visualize these problems in real sense so that the people can be aware of these things."
